

Cliff Hill Wins For the Mavericks By Shutting Out Phoenix

El Paso Southpaw Fans 12 Men and Allows One Hit

Phoenix Is Unable to Fill the Bases at Any Time in Friday's Game—Togernio's Double, Unassisted, Is a Feature—Pitchers Hill and Kane Are Tired and the Mavericks Seek a Relief Hurler.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 27.—Cliff Hill, the Texas league southpaw, proved too much for the locals Friday and shut them out, while the Mavericks scored two runs. Hill fanned 12 of the Phoenix batters and allowed only one hit, while the visitors got eight hits off Barnegrover and only six of their players were fanned. The teams were scheduled at Mesa Saturday and will be back here Sunday. The series with Tucson has been called off.

McDevitt, the first man up Friday for Phoenix, got a single off Hill. The southpaw then mowed down the Phoenicians one after another. Of the four men up in the second, three fanned and one walked. The first three locals up in the fourth inning fanned, all being heavy hitters. Two fanned in the fifth and two in the sixth. Never were the bases full and Phoenix had only two or three chances to score.

Mavericks Score in First.
The Mavericks scored first in the first. Gowen grounded to center for a single. Gurtz sacrificed and Blanchfield singled to center, scoring Gowen. Schultz flew out to left. Kiefer went out to first base.

In the fourth, Blanchfield drove one out to center. Warren muffed the ball and Blanchfield took second. Schultz lined a single to center, scoring Blanchfield. Kiefer tried to bunt, popped a fly to Togernio, who caught it, running and beat Schultz back to the bag for the first unassisted double, which was the prettiest play of the game.

The small crowd of fans was immensely pleased.
Manager Crawford says the game was "big league" ball. A local pitcher, Crawford is hunting a local pitcher.

as Kane and Hill are tired out. He is trying to get Smiley of the Maroons, but if he fails, he will start Gowen, Jackson or Price against Mesa Saturday.

Kane is slated to pitch against Phoenix Sunday, with Hill as the relief hurler.

Men Who Will Fight For the World's Championship

John Murray, the Silent Right Fielder of the Giants

(By Sloane Gordon)

WHEN John Murray (and his initials, by the way, are J. A.) came into the big league, it was by way of St. Louis, J. J. probably figuring, like a lot of social aspirants, any way to get in. It was in 1903 that J. J. McGraw took pity on Murray's plight and extruded him from St. Louis. Many fans, who make it a daily habit in the summer to go to the Polo ground, have been trying to figure out ever since whether Murray is an outfielder or a contortionist.

As a baseball player, Mr. Murray is distinctly an individual and in no sense one of the push. He fields differently, he slides differently, and he hits differently, and, on occasions, indifferently. But let us get him up as high as the big league first.

John J. was born in Arnold, Pa., in 1884, but do not attempt to find this place on the map because there is a report from a reliable source that the course will have the full 18 holes, in time for the match with the Douglas Country club, which will be played on October 25 and 26.

When he was in the big league, Murray's folks sent him away to normal school but did not count on him learning what he did which was to play baseball. So good a student was he when at normal school and such rapid progress did he make that he found time to play professionally with the Lock Haven team while continuing his studies. He advanced in long strides and finally got a job with the Corning club and then the Elmira club of the New York state league while still in Notre Dame university. John thought he was a catcher at this time because his red head made a good target for the pitchers, and he could squat handily being short of build.

Murray got an offer from St. Louis when he was with Elmira, the fortunes of the club being piloted by McGraw in those days. The Cardinals' manager soon cured Murray of thinking he was a catcher and placed him regularly in the outfield because of his hitting ability. John stayed around St. Louis until McGraw sent Bresnahan there to manage that club in 1909 and brought Murray and "Bugs" Raymond away. John has been noted for his long and accurate throwing arm. Murray has committed some of the most sensational catches ever perpetrated in the big league. Sometimes he seems to make it hard on purpose, but he can fold himself up and the unfold and some up with the ball with great consistency. He also has made a good study of angles and is able to tell just where a hit off the right field wall at the Polo ground will bound. He can hold what should be two baggers to one right along and sometimes throws a slow runner out at first base on what should be a clean single if he is feeling right.

Murray has one of the best arms of any outfielder in the big league, and he is credited with saving games and pennants for the Giants with his throwing by no less an authority than John McGraw. He "whips" the ball from any position, and it generally sets where he is aiming it. John has also developed what is known as the "dip" or "tango" slide. He coasts in to a base on that part of him where the beam is broadest but bounces up on his feet again immediately in case of a chance to advance.

John is one of the quietest fellows on the New York club if not in the world. The boys get him to send all their telegrams for them because he can do in so few words. His conversation reminds you of "Dummy" Ray's except on rare occasions which are constantly becoming rare. Copyright by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

Herrick and Higgins Promise Good Fight

Fight Fans Do Not Appreciate Efforts of Professionals Who Are Not Well Known in Local Fields. By JOE HERRICK

BEYOND doubt, the Jack Herrick-Al Higgins boxing contest, scheduled to go 20 rounds at the Juarez arena, is the center attraction, pugilistically speaking, throughout the southwest at present.

In the past, boxing bouts have appeared on paper, vastly superior to this one. Men with topnotch reputations have participated in fights in the southwest, as for instance, on July 4, when Johnny Dundee and Tommy Dixon met at Albuquerque, N. M. Both of these men had boxed draws with champion Killaie, but the box office receipts of their fight were so small that the promoters lost in the vicinity of $1500 on the show, which gives evidence that the fight loving public must be educated pugilistically before it appreciates a topnotch affair.

A boxer that enjoys a local reputation, even though he may be only a fourth-rater, will outdraw a first class fighter, provided that the same pugilist has never appeared before in the southwest.

Fans Don't Appreciate Ability.
The writer has observed fans ask each other why the Juarez promoters do not import first class men to box here. Such a statement shows that the boxers who have participated in the Juarez arena are not given due credit for their efforts. Sports that have witnessed championship contests agree that some of the fights in Juarez are as good as can be had anywhere.

Howard Morrow, Frank Moran, Jeff Clarke and Jack Herrick have appeared in Juarez before the local fans. Moran is now an even money bet against any white man in the game, while Jeff Clarke is one of the greatest light heavyweights of all time, scaling in the neighborhood of 165 pounds. He has beaten such men as the late Luther McCarty and has held Jeannette to two draws.

No Successor to Ketchell.
There is no recognized successor to the throne of the late Stanley Ketchell, and there promises to be some hard fought battles this winter. Howard Morrow is a leading middleweight and Jack Herrick also occupies a seat in the A class. The Kewanee boy is admitted to be one of the toughest of the 155 pounds class. Durability does not always win fights. Brain, more than brawn, are required to make the successful athlete.

Slow thinking while in action is the real reason that the middleweight belt is not now sparkling around the waist of Jack Herrick. Outside of that, he is of championship timber, and has stood off the mighty Jack Dillon four times, and has made against such men as Tom McElhenny, Ralph Calloway, Howard Morrow and Frank Mantell.

Herrick Is Improving.
In the last six bouts in which the "Tiger" has taken part, he has shown a vast improvement, and in a short while the big boy should prove that he is a coming force of his division.

Higgins Has Many Friends.
Of Al Higgins the writer knows nothing. In the sparring bouts at his camp he has extended himself for local fans to get a line on him. He has a host of friends that believe their protegee is a marvelous fighter. Higgins challenged Jack Herrick continually on a "winner take all" basis and a $2000 side bet. He got his wish and picked out the toughest trail horse of them all. If he carries the necessary goods to defeat Herrick, he is within a stone's throw of the championship go. At any rate, when the sun sets Sunday afternoon, we'll see.

Little Girls Applauded.
Opening the program was a march and calisthenic drill by the Junior Girls' class. This was well executed and won much applause. Taking part in this were Laveta Kuhn, Helen De Paw, Elizabeth Rogers, Helen Kitt, Margarette Gillespie, Sally Phipps, Olive Walker, Sylvia Rivers, Thelma Helgren, Anna Lyons, Anna O'Neill, Levan Sorrelle, Virginia Cooper, Evon Easton, Catherine McNary, May McCormack, Winifred McCarthy, less the march and drill. The little girls wore dark bloomers and white middie.

Tumbling Drill Given.
Next came a tumbling drill by the Young Men's class, led by the instructor, E. H. Tankersley. Participating in this were: Homer Thomas, Lee Nichols, A. Morrow, Charlie Walters, Raymond Lorenz and Arthur Klesner.

During the entire evening, Homer Thomas was the funmaker of the crowd. Dressed in a white clown's costume, with black face, he performed all sorts of difficult feats and cut capers that kept the crowd highly entertained. Thomas and Mr. Tankersley did a number of difficult feats together.

Dorris Brothers Wrestle.
Joe Dorris and W. B. Dorris were next on the program. Joe Dorris first gave a demonstration of the different positions in wrestling, explaining the various holds and throws. Then there was a five minute wrestling match.

Yokum Loses to Ketchell.
Denver, Colo., Sept. 27.—Steve Ketchell, of Chicago, was given the decision over Stanley Yokum, of Los Vegas, N. M., at the end of 10 rounds of fierce fighting. The decision was popular.

Norwich Halfback Dies.
Worcester, Mass., Sept. 27.—Verner S. Bailey, left half back of Norwich University football team, who suffered a broken spine in a game with Holy Cross college Wednesday, died Friday.

Denver Man Wins Golf Match.
Rye, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Walter Fairbanks, the Denver Country club veteran, won in playing off the tie with Herman Wendell, of St. David's, Philadelphia, for the lowest gross score of the seniors' annual golf tournament over the Apawamis course.

Players are Selected For Foursome at Country Club

STARTING the autumn golf season off with a foursome golf match, about 40 players will be out on the Country club golf links Sunday morning. The playing will begin at 9 o'clock. It is to be a mixed foursome, players from class A and D pitted against players from class B and C. There will be a prize of six golf balls for the pair of players making the lowest aggregate score. Also it is to be a dinner match, the losing pair to pay for the dinner for their foursome. Arranging the names of the players was the work of A. W. Houck, club man, J. J. Pruett, E. Ledwidge and L. W. Pritchett.

Playing in the foursome match are: F. E. Alexander and C. W. Simpkins against Tom Newman and E. Ledwidge; W. M. Petticoles and J. W. Thompson against Tally Brown and V. E. Reggier.

OUMET WINS GOLF MATCH WITH TRAVERS
Brookline, Mass., Sept. 27.—Champion met champion yesterday and Francis Oumet, America's national open golf title holder, added to his recent laurels by vanquishing Jerome D. Travers, the national amateur champion. The match went 20 holes before the youth prevailed.

Oumet's victory marked a clean sweep for the players of the Boston district against those of New York in the singles division of the preliminary for the Lesley cup. New York won three out of five foursome matches, but the inter-city score for the day was:

Boston, 12; New York, 2.
The final match was scheduled to meet Philadelphia, the present holder of the Lesley cup, in the final today.

AMERICA WINS FIVE INTERNATIONAL CUPS

Athletes Capture Five of the Eight Contests and are After Others, Expecting Victory.

New York, Sept. 27.—American sportsmen will soon be taking stock and balancing the ledger of 1913, already noted as a year of many and remarkable international sporting competitions. When the final pages are written the record cannot fail to please the most ardent follower of amateur sport. Eight contests for international trophies have attracted more than the usual interest in the states this year. Of these six have passed into history and five returned the United States as winner. American teams won the polo world cup, the Davis tennis cup for the yachting trophy and the international canoe racing cup. The Palma rifle shooting trophy and the international motor boat trophy. Still two others remain to be contested in the international aeroplane and balloon races. Even though the United States met defeat in these closing competitions a record of five out of eight victories in one year is sufficient honor for Uncle Sam in 12 months.

HARVARD MEETS MAINE TEAM; PRINCETON PLAYS RUTGERS
New York, Sept. 27.—Football teams representing the leading universities of the country swing into action today. In the east, Pennsylvania, Princeton and Harvard all play.

Much interest will naturally attach to Harvard's opening game. Captain Storor will undoubtedly try out a number of men during the game with the University of Maine.

Princeton appears to have one of the hardest games of the day in the east against Rutgers. Pennsylvania faces Gettysburg but the latter does not appear more formidable than last year. Cornell must face Colgate, which defeated Cornell 15 to 2 last season.

In the south the University of Virginia will open against Randolph-Macon.

West Point was scheduled to meet Norwich university today, but the death of Verner S. Belyea, left halfback for the Norwich team, as a result of injuries received in the game with Holy Cross Wednesday caused cancellation.

DOYLE AND SNOGRASS OF THE GIANTS ARE INJURED
Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The supporters of the New York Giants in the world's series got a double shock when they learned that captain Larry Doyle had been injured in a serious accident and outfielder Fred Snodgrass had sprung a "charley horse." Neither is likely to play again for a week and may be out of the series with the Athletics for the world's championship.

Doyle received his injury as he was driving home in the automobile he won as the best all around National league player of 1912.

Snodgrass opened the game yesterday with a single to center and slowed up turning first. He limped and then retired in favor of Cooper.

FRANCIS OUMET HOLDS THE GOLF TITLE ONLY SIX DAYS.
Brookline, Mass., Sept. 27.—Francis Oumet, the open golf champion of six days standing, met defeat Friday when he and his partner, F. H. Hoyt, were beaten by Jerome D. Travers and Gilman Tiffany, four up and three to play, in the foursome between the Massachusetts and Metropolitan teams for the Lesley cup.

FERNS GETS BEST OF FIGHT WITH WALTERS AT KENOSHA
Kenosha, Wis., Sept. 27.—Wildcat Ferns, of Kansas City, had the better of Billy Walters, of Chicago, in their 10 round bout in the Kenosha arena last night. Ferns was carrying the fight to the Chicagoan most of the time and Walters took an awful beating.

In the early rounds the battling was fairly even, but Ferns had a big advantage in the closing rounds. Walters took more punishment than any man who has appeared in a Kenosha ring. Neither of the men showed championship form and as an elimination match for the welterweight title the battle was a failure.

In the semi-windup, Bobby Hayes, of Philadelphia, shaded Artie Armstrong, of Chicago.
